2. Active Listening & Analogy Extraction Tracker

While listening to the 10-minute audio overview, identify 3 key mechanisms and the exact everyday metaphors the hosts use:

Core Concept / Mechanism	Everyday Metaphor Used by Hosts	My Plain-English Translation	Confidence
Example: Cellular Respiration / Electron Transport	"An automated factory assembly line transferring high-energy packages."	Electrons pass through membrane protein pumps to power ATP production like batteries.	☒ High ☐ Med ☐ Low
Concept 1: 			☐ High ☐ Med ☐ Low
Concept 2: 			☐ High ☐ Med ☐ Low
Concept 3: 			☐ High ☐ Med ☐ Low

3. Socratic Self-Debate & Critical Inquiry

Step-by-Step Prompt to Paste into NotebookLM Chat:
"I just finished listening to the Audio Overview on [Chapter]. Ask me 3 challenging questions that test whether I truly understand cause-and-effect rather than just definitions. Ask one question at a time. Evaluate my reasoning before moving to the next question."

Record Your Insights from the Dialogue:
Central Debate / Theoretical Tension: _____

Supporting Evidence from Chapter Sources: _____

Counter-Argument or Potential Limitation: _____

4. Active Recall & Spaced Repetition Vocabulary Matrix

Translate textbook jargon into your own words. Check off retention on Day 1, Day 3, and Day 7 before tests.

Key Academic Term	Definition in My Own Words (No Copying)	Spaced Retention Review
1. _____	_____ _____ _____	☐ Day 1 • Initial ☐ Day 3 • Review ☐ Day 7 • Mastery
2. _____	_____ _____ _____	☐ Day 1 • Initial ☐ Day 3 • Review ☐ Day 7 • Mastery
3. _____	_____ _____ _____	☐ Day 1 • Initial ☐ Day 3 • Review ☐ Day 7 • Mastery
4. _____	_____ _____ _____	☐ Day 1 • Initial ☐ Day 3 • Review ☐ Day 7 • Mastery

5. Academic Integrity & Responsible AI Honor Pledge

Student Commitment:
[X] Study Partner Mandate: I used NotebookLM strictly as a conversational study partner to accelerate comprehension, not to plagiarize answers or ghostwrite assignments.
[X] Fact Verification: I cross-referenced key explanations with my primary textbook readings and course notes.
[X] Privacy Protection: I entered zero personal identification data, school account passwords, or confidential records.
